

Creating Quality for Life

James Ransome

Quality Engineer

▣ Started at Kimball Electronics in 2012

- James lives in downtown Indianapolis, Indiana. In his free time he enjoys traveling, completing home renovation projects, listening to music, cooking—especially grilling—and spending time with family and friends.
- Kimball Electronics is James's employer of choice because he believes in the life-saving products that we create. In his professional experience he is proud of his achievement of working his way up from Quality Inspector to Quality Engineer.
- James is proud to be part of a company like Kimball Electronics where "even people with drastically different temperaments, personalities, backgrounds, and worldviews can work together to attain a common goal."

Kimball Medical Solutions