

Magdalena Stróznia

Failure Analyst
KEPS

▣ Started at Kimball Electronics in 2013

- Magdalena lives in Poznań, Poland where she enjoys hobbies such as reading criminal books and playing board or video games. She also loves active recreation such as hiking mountain trails, building things, and "do-it-yourself" projects such as small home renovation and repair!
- Magdalena previously worked in the Medical Production Department, but recently was given the opportunity to work with engineers as a Failure Analyst in Laboratory through the "It's Time for You" program. She is most proud of this professional achievement because it allows her to strengthen her problem-solving skills and gain new experiences.
- During her time at Kimball Electronics, Magdalena has enjoyed working alongside others that are "always helpful and kind with good sense of humor." She has found that the people-centered culture at the company has relieved her stress and made her job much more enjoyable. The "kindness, helpfulness, and care for the employee" is what Magdalena finds so unique about our company culture.